The nation's fathers harmonize their way through the founding of America in this musical adapted from a popular Broadway show. Colonial representatives gather in Philadelphia with the aim of establishing a set of governmental rules for the burgeoning United States. Benjamin Franklin (Howard da Silva) and John Adams (William Daniels) charge Thomas Jefferson (Ken Howard) with the work of writing a statement announcing the new country's emancipation from British rule.

The free event is hosted by Adams National Historic Neighborhood Association and the Friends of Butlers Pond.

HN Garden Club Receives $25,000 Beautification Grant

Club Also Awards Scholarships

The Houghs Neck Garden Club announces an application for a grant to the Quincy Community Preservation Act to improve the landscaping around the World War II memorial on the corner of Sea Street and Manet Avenue was successful and $25,000 was awarded for the project.

The club will be working with a landscaper. The HNGC's thanks go to Mayor Koch, the Quincy City Council, and the Quincy Community Preservation Grant Program.

Also the Club has awarded three $500 scholarships to three Quincy High School graduates who are going into fields that fit the criteria for the award. The recipients are Julie Hong, who will attend UMass Boston and major in science and marine biology; Helena Norton who will attend Mass Maritime Academy and major in marine safety; and Environmental Protection and Rachel Shen who will attend MIT and major in environmental science and biotechnology.

The HNGC has funds for only two scholarships and the scholarship committee had a difficult time deciding to whom those two scholarships should be awarded. The Club is very grateful to Ron Goodman for helping it out of the dilemma and donating the extra money this year for the third scholarship.

The Club is a member of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts and National Garden Clubs, Inc.

Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Road Race In HN Saturday

The Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Road Race will be held Saturday, June 30, in Houghs Neck.

The event is a great time for friends and family of Bill Dunn Jr. to gather in honor of his life and share memories with each other. This is the 12th year the road race is being held, and each year the participation and support is remarkable.

Registration for the event will begin at 7 a.m. at the St. Thomas Aquinas Hall on Darrow Street. Those interested can participate in a five-mile run or two-mile walk beginning at 9 a.m. Prizes will be awarded for first place male/female runner, first place Houghs Neck resident male/female runner and awards to first, second and third place runners in each age group.

The first 300 people to register will receive a free race t-shirt. Proceeds from the event benefit the Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Scholarship, which has provided scholarships to Quincy High students, donations to Children's Hospital, Manets Youth Football and other local organizations.

The registration fee is $30 for runners and $20 for walkers; children walking are free. Registration forms are available online at rememberb.com and can be mailed to Bill Dunn Jr. Memorial Road Race, 105 Edgewater Dr., Quincy, MA 02169. Participants can also register online at racewire.com.

fiscal year ending June 30, and will pay the contractor $4.5 million in the upcoming fiscal year.

Sunrise Scavenger said Quincy's decision would cost taxpayers money — both because of the additional cost and for the breach of contract.

"The city's conduct, as laid out in the complaint, will not only cost Quincy taxpayers at least $2.3 million more for the next three years, and an untold amount for the following two years, but will have exposed the city to additional damages for the unpaid portion of the contract," Sunrise Scavenger said in a statement June 21.

Chris Walker, Koch's chief of staff, said the mayor stands by his decision and is prepared to defend it.

"The mayor fully stands behind the decision to terminate the contract with Sunrise and we look forward to defending that decision in whatever form is necessary and appropriate," Walker said Monday.

City officials said the termination was in response to Sunrise Scavenger's acquisition by a private equity firm. The company, however, said Sunrise owner Joseph Lombardi still retains a "significant ownership position and remains in the role of day-to-day leader of the company, while partnering with a new firm which will help Sunrise Scavenger expand and enhance its service and business."

Further, Sunrise said it told Quincy of the partnership agreement last November and never heard back from city officials until the company received the termination letter six months later.

"Sunrise Scavenger notified the city of its partnership arrangement in November of 2017. During the ensuing six months, Sunrise Scavenger received no response from the city until a termination letter arrived May 30," the company said.

"During that time, officials could have been negotiating with Sunrise Scavenger to see if there was a way around the partnership technicality that would have kept the lower price contract in place for the next five years."

In its suit against Capitol Waste Services, Sunrise alleges the firm intentionally interfered with the latter's contract with Quincy and negotiated a deal while the 10-year pact remained in effect.

$6.75M Helps Homebuyers With Down Payments

hoodLIFT program at city hall recently. The program provides down payment assistance grants of $20,000 to eligible residents and $22,500 grants for first responders – police officers, firefighters, paramedics – teachers, active members of the military, veterans and surviving spouses of veterans.

Koch said that many people with good jobs making decent incomes find it difficult to come up with a reasonable down payment toward a new home.

"In the marketplace in the Greater Boston area, this continues to be a challenge," he said. "This program is just terrific to target that. Coming up with that down payment is huge."

The mayor noted that as housing prices continue to rise, it makes it more difficult for families to afford a home.

"Home values going up is a positive sign," Koch said. "The downside is...breaking into that housing market is more challenging."

Wells Fargo is providing the funding for its nationwide NeighborhoodLIFT program and NeighborWorks America is working with its 250 local network members throughout the country, including NeighborWorks Southern Massachusetts that is based in Quincy, to administer the program and determine eligibility. Locally, the program is available to residents in Norfolk, Plymouth, Suffolk, Essex, and Middlesex counties.

The annual income of the applicant must be $107,800 or less. The income is for the applicant only, not the entire household income. The applicant must commit to live in the home for at least five years and complete a homebuyer education program offered by NeighborWorks.

Corley explained that his organization offers three types of homebuyer education programs in Quincy. One is a face-to-face class with a counselor, another is online and then meet with a counselor later, the third is a hybrid of both online and in-person.

He noted the mortgage crises of 2006 and 2007 when many homeowners were forced into foreclosure because they took on loans above their means. Under the NeighborLIFT program, applicants are vetted for mortgage eligibility as well as being educated in home buying.

"The homebuyer must qualify for a mortgage they can truly afford," said Corley. "That's where homebuyer education comes in. Homebuyer education is consumer protection."

Coley said NeighborWorks Southern Massachusetts has been offering homebuyer assistance and the NeighborhoodLIFT program "would dovetail nicely into that."

Wells Fargo is offering its NeighborhoodLIFT homebuyers event June 29 and 30 at the Sheraton Boston Hotel on Dalton Street from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. There are 500 homebuyers registered, but walk-ins are welcome.

Corley said applicants must be able to close on a home within 60 days of the June 29-30 event in order to qualify for the down payment grant. Those that have a home under a sales agreement should bring their purchase and sale agreement document to the event.

Wells Fargo South Shore mortgage consultant Conan Soohoo said that the Quincy NeighborhoodLIFT program is the 60th launched in the country. Since 2012, the bank has provided $376 million in down payment assistance to more than 70,600 homeowners through the program.

"In every market it has been a welcomed boost to home buyers," he said. "We are pleased to be able to help make home ownership more affordable and help the hard working families of Quincy achieve this milestone."

Joanie Straussman Brandon, Northeast regional Vice President of NeighborWorks America, said that the organization has been providing home ownership education by certified instructors for

On Wednesday, June 20, at approximately 12:45 p.m., members of the Quincy Police Drug Control Unit (Detectives O'Brien, O'Rourke, Powers, and Cassidy) set up surveillance in the area of Quincy Shore Drive in North Quincy for some potential drug activity.

Detective Powers observed a gray Infiniti pull over into a side street and stop in front of a house where a known drug user came out and entered the passenger side front seat. At this time, the observations were communicated to the other nearby detectives, which led to Detective O'Brien pulling his vehicle behind the suspect vehicle while Detective Cassidy approached from the opposite end of the street.

Detective O'Brien, with his police badge displayed, exited his vehicle and approached the driver's side door announcing, "Quincy Police." As he did this, the driver pulled his vehicle away approximately 15-20 feet and then stopped as he observed Detective Cassidy approaching. The driver was directed to step out of the vehicle.

Detective O'Brien opened up the driver's side door as Detective Cassidy approached the passenger side front door, where he observed the female conceal her clenched left hand under her left leg. She was asked to step from the vehicle. On the front passenger seat, both detectives observed a clear plastic knotted corner bag that contained a tan powder believed to be fentanyl/heroin.

Detectives O'Rourke and Powers arrived on scene at this point. The driver was advised of his Miranda rights to which he stated he understood and agreed to answer questions. When asked what he was doing, the driver said that he was visiting his friend. When asked where he was coming from, the driver said from his apartment in North Quincy. When told that drugs were found on the passenger seat, the driver denied giving the female drugs. The driver then stated that his 10-year old-daughter was still in the apartment alone and that he was just making a short stop and was headed back to the apartment.

Detective Cassidy observed a Mass DTA card in the name of another female on the front passenger seat next to where the bag of fentanyl/heroin was found. The detectives knew that drug dealers accept Mass DTA cards as a form of payment in which money can be withdrawn or the card can be used to make purchases. Buyers will also use Mass DTA cards of others who are willing to provide it in order to share the drugs.

Detective Powers interviewed the female per Miranda and learned from her that she did meet with the driver to get drugs, either fentanyl or heroin, but wasn't sure what it was going to be. She said when she saw the detectives approaching the car she tried to hide the drugs. Based on the above observations and information, the driver was placed under arrest for distribution of Class A, subsequent offense. Seized from the vehicle was the driver's wallet containing $140, along with a cell phone that was in his hand.

LT. DAN MINTON

The suspect vehicle was towed to the station and was later searched by Officer Dabilis and his K9 Partner with negative results. The female was provided a card for the Buyer Diversion Treatment Alternative Program sponsored by the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office and was advised that she may be summonsed into court for possession of Class A drug. Prior to being transported, Detective O'Brien allowed the driver to call a family member to respond to his apartment to take custody of his daughter.

Detective O'Brien took possession of the driver's apartment keys and advised he would be responding to the apartment as well to ensure the safety of the juvenile and to secure the apartment for a search warrant. Detective O'Brien knocked on the apartment door and made verbal contact with the daughter, who did not open the door. He advised her that he was a police officer and that her father was under arrest. She began to cry and telephoned her grandmother while still behind the closed door.

Detective O'Brien requested a uniformed police officer respond and shortly thereafter Officer Mark Smith arrived. The juvenile opened the door slightly and handed her phone to Detective O'Brien, who then via Facetime, showed her grandmother his badge and police identification and advised why he was at the apartment. They then advised Detective O'Brien that a family member was close by.

Minutes later a cousin arrived and accompanied Detectives

O'Brien, Powers, and Officer Smith into the apartment where they awaited the arrival of the juvenile's mother. Approximately one hour later the mother arrived and left with her daughter. At approximately 4:10 p.m., Detective Cassidy was issued the warrant by the court, which he provided a copy to the mother, who returned to the apartment.

During the process, the mother said the driver is her on and off again boyfriend and that he is unemployed. She added they have been living in the apartment for over a year. Prior to us searching the apartment, the mother decided to leave. As a result of the search, the following items were found and seized:

- Approximately 65 grams of powder believed to be Fentanyl/Heroin (3 p/b's)
- Suboxone -Digital Scale
- Packaging materials (1 bag with corners cut off)
- Browning .25 Caliber (Defaced Serial #) handgun with magazine inserted w/ two rounds • 22 Caliber rounds (19 total)
- 3K USC -Sentry Safe -Residency papers/paperwork/identification in the name of the driver.

A total of $3,153 was seized as part of drug sales and an asset forfeiture form was filed with the district attorney's office. After examining the Firearm it appears the serial number has been defaced. The firearm will be submitted to the Massachusetts State Police Lab for analysis (ballistics, DNA and prints).

A field distance request was submitted to the City of Quincy Engineering Department to determine if the apartment fell within 300 feet of the North Quincy High School located at 316 Hancock St.

The suspect, a 37-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with distribution of Class A, subsequent offense (94C/32); trafficking fentanyl (94C/32E); possession of Class B w/ the intent to distribute, subsequent offense, illegal possession of a firearm, subsequent offense, illegal possession of ammunition, possession of a firearm with a defaced serial number, possession of firearm in use of a felony, possession of a firearm with 3 prior violent/drug crimes and drug violation near school zone.

The drive was charged with subsequent offenses as he was found guilty of distribution of Class A in Suffolk Superior Court in 2008 and found guilty of firearm possession in Suffolk Superior Court in 2006. Detective O'Brien contacted the DCF Hotline and filed a 51A with regards to the juvenile daughter.

Council Commends Chuck Phelan For Service To City

By SCOTT JACKSON

City councillors praised Chuck Phelan, Quincy's retiring chief information officer, for his years of service to the community.

Phelan, who was formerly a Ward 5 councillor, received the commendation on June 18. City Council President Brad Croall and Ward 5 Councillor presented the commendation at the meeting.

Hughes said Phelan and his family have a long history of giving back to the city. Phelan's father, Charles, was a Quincy police officer, and Phelan's wife, Michelle Lydon, is the owner of Lydon Chapel for Funerals.

"You and your family have a long history with this city – a long history of service and commitment to community. I know your wife, Michelle, is here and she too has such a strong commitment to our community," Hughes said. We are just so appreciative of you, and your work and your dedication to the folks of Quincy."

"I just thank you on behalf of a very grateful ward, and a very grateful city and a very grateful friend," Hughes added.

Croall called Phelan someone he looked up to, and said he knows Phelan and Lydon will remain active in the community.

"Chuck, you were certainly one of the guys that I looked up to when we first met when I got engaged with the local civic association," Croall said.

"I know you won't be going far. You're very active in a lot of non profits and you have a great sidekick in your wife, Michelle, so I'm sure you will guys will be busy and find plenty of stuff to do. Thank you for your service to the city."

Phelan thanked the councillors for the commendation. Phelan said every city employee and elected official he had met with since 1988, when he first joined the council, strived to make Quincy a better place.

"The one thing that has always carried me is people have had the overriding thing that they want to do the best thing for the city. We might have had disagreements on how to get there, but everyone has had the best interests of the citizens of Quincy. I think when you look around, it's one of the reasons people want to move to the city of Quincy," Phelan said.

"From my time on the City Council and then going on to working in the city as a department head, it's always amazed me the number of great people and dedicated people who come to work everyday. I never really met a city employee who didn't have the best interests of the citizens of the city at heart."

smartphones. The mobility is probably the biggest change," Phelan said.

"A lot of the departments like police, inspectional services, they all have iPads. They all have smartphones. A lot of the communications they do during the day are on those. That's the one part of the business that's exploded now."

In 2014, about midway through Phelan's second stint at Quincy's CIO, the IT Department moved from its former location in the City Hall annex to the then newly renovated Coddington Building. The new space was designed to accommodate the department, including the city's data center, and Phelan called it a major upgrade over the previous location.

"We were working in very bad conditions before we moved in there. Now it's very modern," he said. "It was set up for us. Before, we kind of put it in there – it was never meant for it. Now, the building we're in – the data center, the print shop – it's been built for those purposes, so it's much, much nicer"

Phelan ran for and won the Ward 5 seat on the City Council in 1987. He ran for the seat that year at the suggestion of then Ward 5 Councillor Stephen McGrath, who gave up the Ward 5 seat for a successful at-large bid.

"I'd been around a lot. At that time, Steve McGrath was leaving the Ward 5 seat and I had worked for Stephen when he ran for Ward 5 councillor and he called me up and said you should think about running," Phelan recalled. "At that point, I decided to run for Ward 5 city councillor."

One of Phelan's biggest accomplishments as a city councillor was working with then Mayor James Sheets to re-open the Beechwood Knoll School. The school had closed in 1981 and was re-opened in 1996.

"Originally they wanted to do an all-day kindergarten there and not an elementary school, but the numbers were saying you really need an elementary school," Phelan said. "I went to the mayor – Mayor Sheets at the time – and we put a six-room addition on with a media center, which is what it was lacking to get school funding from the state."

"Once we put that on, I think the state paid 60 percent of it."

Phelan was recognized as the Ward 5 Citizen of the Year in 2015 by the local community association for his effort to re-open the elementary school.

While on the council, he also worked to beautify the Wollaston Center area with the installation of ornamental lights and other improvements.

"The Wollaston Center – all the colonial lights and all the stuff – I was part of getting that done in that area," Phelan said.

In addition to the Beechwood Knoll School re-opening and improvements in Wollaston Center, Phelan said he also enjoyed being able to assist so many of his constituents.

"I enjoyed helping people out. A lot phone calls. A lot of helping people out. I was in before there were emails, so everything was done by calling people back. You develop relationships with those people that I have still have today with a lot of them," he said.

"I think sometimes we're too quick to text, too quick to email. I think one of the things I've seen in politics with working in the city is that lack of contact with people and actually meeting with them. I think that's something that's a little lacking today."

In retirement, Phelan says he plans to remain in Quincy with his wife, Michelle Lydon, who owns the Lydon Chapel for Funerals in Wollaston.

"I'm going to be helping her working in the business," Phelan said.

Phelan has been involved with a number of local organizations throughout the years, including the Quincy Lions Club, which he plans to stay actively involved in in retirement. He is also chairman of the group that helps Quincy Public Schools students get eye exams and eyeglasses.

"I'm going to continue to do that kind of community work that I've done for all my life," Phelan said.

One thing he is not planning to do, however, is re-enter politics.

"At this point, I'm just getting out of it. I need to get away and clear my head a little bit, but I'm not planning on running," Phelan said.

Louisa Catherine Johnson
Miniature in oil, by JMW 1810

As chief negotiator for the Treaty of Ghent which ended the War of 1812, John Quincy Adams's trust in Louisa's discretion, his appreciation in her ability to understand affairs of state, and her political acumen came through in his missive to her during the peace conference:

You will now, my Dearest Friend receive in the most exclusive Confidence whatever I shall write you on this subject – Say not a word of it to any human being, until the result shall be publicly known.

Making History

Adams National Historical Park welcomes Catherine Allgor, President, Massachusetts Historical Society, to discuss the life of the 6th First Lady of the United States, Louisa Catherine Adams. Frequently overshadowed by her famous mother-in-law, Louisa Catherine forged her own place in history and becoming an influential and indispensable actor in early 19th century American diplomacy and politics.

Norfolk County Registry Of Deeds Celebrates 225th Anniversary

It was an evening when "History Came Alive," all 225 years' worth, as several hundred people came to partake in the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds' birthday celebration.

The event, which was held on June 20th and free to the public, showcased the notable land records of many prominent people, along with changes to the Registry's operations throughout the past two and a quarter centuries.

"It was on June 20, 1793 that Norfolk County and the Registry of Deeds came into existence thanks to a bill signed into law by then Governor John Hancock," noted Register of Deeds William O'Donnell. "As some residents of Norfolk County will proudly tell you, next to his being the lead signer of the Declaration of Independence, this was probably

"STILL NUMBER ONE"

Ask Barbara Graceffa: 'Secretary Of The Interior' Brightening Mini Bath Remodel

I am at the midway point in a mini bathroom remodel and could really use your advice. So far, in my 5-foot by 7-foot room, I have installed a beautiful, carved, dark-stained vanity with a beige marble top and white bowl, a beige marble-look vinyl tile floor, and painted an accent wall in a pretty dusty plum color. The other walls are white as are the tub and toilet. However, I'm finding the room on the dark side. Before I go any further, what ideas can you offer before I decide to scrap the plum color for a lighter choice? Della

It sounds regal so far! I do have a few ideas to allow you to move forward with your original vision.

Install a large mirror as wide is your vanity and as tall as you can find. Hang a mini chandelier in front of it and max out the lumens of the bulb to allow the most light to brighten the space because the mirror will help bounce or project the light across the room.

Next, choose a medium-large to large piece of art with a lot of white in the background or subject matter to hang on the plum accent wall. Repeat the white in a solid color, textured shower curtain.

Finally, add some bling where possible like the frame of the mirror and artwork, cosmetic tray, tissue holder, soap dish, etc. Gold goes very well with the purple family of colors but, if your faucets are stainless or chrome, you can always go with a silvery sparkle. (Although it is OK to mix metals, I personally prefer the continuity of one over two.)

In most decorating decisions (and, I believe, throughout life itself!), go with your gut (in this case, the plum wall) and find a way to make things work. I hope this advice does the trick!

More Tom Galvin

Remembering Tom Galvin

Tom's tours were more than an educational experience. They were a workout. I think the day I walked with Tom and the other participants the tour lasted nearly three hours. Clearly some of us were not in the best shape to follow Tom who was like a shepherd leading his flock. Briskly walking up and down the rolling grass hills of Mount Wollaston, Tom was indefatigable. I think he could have talked and walked well after sundown.

He certainly knew his subject matter and presented it in an informative and conversation-like manner. Each participant received a printed Mount Wollaston Cemetery walking guide pamphlet that marked noteworthy monuments on the graves of 60 prominent Granite industry leaders as well as 26 other monuments made of Quincy granite. This was a just a sample, Tom said, noting there are hundreds of other Quincy granite monuments at Mount Wollaston not listed on the walking map.

On this particular Saturday afternoon five years ago, about 25 local residents and history buffs turned out for Tom's tour. That was a good number, Tom said, because he liked to get in the group and talk to people face-to-face.

"It's really fun when you get a group of people who really care," he said at the time. "The people who take the tour are truly interested in Quincy granite and or Quincy history. Mount Wollaston Cemetery is a beautiful cemetery and it's an outdoor museum to both those things. Cemeteries allow us to know about people we never met and to come close to events that are long behind us."

Mount Wollaston Cemetery was consecrated on Nov. 1, 1855. The original portion - 12 acres - was one of America's early garden cemeteries.

Tom's interpretative cemetery tours were like snowflakes - no two were alike. Each one was different and he never carried notes with him on the tour. He enjoyed doing research on the monuments because "researching these people is how you learn history."

He always hoped that citizens who took part in his tour gained an appreciation for the granite industry. After that tour five years ago he noted that 2013 marked the 50th anniversary of the closing of the city's last working quarry - Swingle's Quarry.

Back in 1963, a new owner tried to reactivate the quarry and a crew was put in place to work in the quarry that was deeper than a 35-story building.

"A couple of fellas from New Hampshire were killed in an accident and the owner said, 'that's it.' It was too treacherous to continue quarrying," he recalled.

Tom liked to point out that Quincy granite is famed all over the world. The Bunker Hill Monument and King's Chapel in Boston are made from it. So too are monuments in Gettysburg and in our nation's capital.

But you don't have to leave the city to see its enduring qualities and beauty. Old City Hall (James R. McIntyre Government Center) is constructed from Quincy granite. And so too are hundreds of monuments at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Before monuments were standardized (similar shape and size), earlier memorials were created that were unique and beautiful. Tom's tours pointed out these older monuments, from the Jonathan S. Swingle Monument created from "extra dark" Quincy granite to Quincy's other "granite gazing ball" that adorns the final resting place of Theophilus King, a renowned Quincy banker, businessman and philanthropist.

With Tom Galvin's help, a new expanded Mount Wollaston Cemetery pamphlet was published a few years ago. While the grave stones often show years of birth and death, Tom said his research and descriptions are all about the dash in between those two dates.

"The dash - that's where the story is," he said in an interview in October, 2016 shortly after the pamphlet was made available to the public. "In order to talk about people you have to go investigate what that dash is. You might know that person was a mayor but what about him? What else did he do?"

Tom Galvin was laid to rest Tuesday at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

We extend our sincerest condolences to the Galvin family.

We appreciate Tom for sharing his beloved postcard collection with Quincy Sun readers for nearly a quarter century.

We are grateful for being a part of Tom's "dash." Like the local history he loved, may Tom Galvin be forever remembered.

Scenes From Yesterday

MERRY CHRISTMAS
from QUINCY, MASS.

Largest Christmas Tree in United States.
85 feet high contributed by Retail Merchants.

ONE OF THE MOST popular postcards in Tom Galvin's collection is this 1934 postcard showing the Christmas tree erected by the Retail Merchants Bureau of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce. It was in front of the Granite Trust Bank building now home to a branch of the Bank of America at 1400 Hancock St. Two weeks before this tree was lighted a smaller tree was dedicated on the same spot, but it was toppled by a 55-mile-per-hour gale. MIT engineers brought in to prevent a recurrence claimed this new 85-foot tree could withstand winds to 240 mph. The first 60 feet of the trunk, set firmly into the ground, was the boom from a derrick donated by the Swingle Quarry Co. It was capable of lifting 20 tons of granite. On top of the boom was attached a 25-foot real tree. Three hundred and twenty smaller trees salvaged from the collapsed tree were inserted into holes drilled into the boom to serve as the lower branches. Six nearly one-inch thick cables secured the tree from all sides, and some 600 lights accompanied a large and small star that flashed alternately at the top. On the occasion of the tree lighting, a spectacular scintillator on top of the bank building threw a great fan of light in all colors more than a mile into the sky. Inside the bank the lobby and all the building's windows were lighted each day with over 1,200 real vigil candles. Howard Johnson's Restaurant was the store on the left at One Chestnut Street. On the right at 1402 Hancock St. was Homer's, a jewelry store that in 1940 became Roger's Jewelry Company and is still in business today as Rogers Jewelry. This postcard became a tradition in The Quincy Sun and appeared for the 23rd year last December.

This Star Won't Go Out Quincy-Based Non-Profit Supports Childhood Cancer Local Gala Doubles Attendance, Fundraising

This Star Won't Go Out

This Star Won't Go Out, a Quincy-based nonprofit supporting childhood cancer and working to inspire young people through grant-giving projects, recently held their Shine Under the Stars Gala.

TSWGO announced that they doubled their attendance and fundraising from 2017. Generously hosted by the Waterclub at Marina Bay, the fundraising gala took place on June 3rd. Guests enjoyed tastings, delicious appetizers, a wine pull, live music, and pastries donated by Konditor Meister.

The event paid tribute to the legacy of Esther Grace

Earl, a local Quincy teen who passed away from metastasized thyroid cancer in 2010, but not before inspiring John Green to write "The Fault in Our Stars." Esther also left behind journals that were published in 2014 as the New York Times best-seller, "This Star Won't Go Out: The Life and Words of Esther Grace Earl."

The gala began with tastings from Down the Road Brewery and Coole Swan, and a well-received performance by the local teen group, X's & O's (formerly known as 3D). A silent auction lined several long tables, full of items donated by supportive businesses, including several local companies: Wheelhouse Diner, Punjab Cafe, Golfers Warehouse in Braintree, Fuji Group, Trader Joe's (Hingham), Tony's Clam Shop, and 1604 Salon. Hosted by Sorboni Banerjee, author and TV reporter, the program highlighted the Conforti family of Quincy. Vincent, who attends Montclair Elementary, was diagnosed with leukemia at the age of four. Now 7, Vincent has completed treatments at Dana Farber, is gaining strength, and joined a baseball team for the first time in his life!

Three local students were celebrated as winners of the "Writing for Positive Change Essay Contest," sponsored by This Star Won't Go Out. Open to Quincy Public School 10th-12th graders, students were asked to write about the theme, "How Can One Person Bring Positive Change?"

Sorboni Banerjee handed out certificates and cash prizes to the three winning students: first place to Sara McDonald of Quincy High School; second place to Mahnoor Riaz, and third place to Brian Zou, both of North Quincy High School.

Sponsorship for the gala was generously provided by Granite Telecommunications, FastSigns of Quincy, and the Waterclub. Additional sponsors included Daniel Hoffman, Stephen Yeh, Briggs Corner Store in Attleboro, and Meineke Car Care Center in Quincy.

This Star Won't Go Out began in 2011 to celebrate the purpose-filled life of Esther Earl. To date, TSWGO has helped hundreds of families and given away over $450,000 in financial assistance to families facing childhood cancer, providing funds to pay for cost of living expenses not covered by insurance, including housing, utilities, and travel. Sheriff Visits Snug Harbor School NORFOLK COUNTY SHERIFF Michael Bellotti recently visited the Snug Harbor Elementary School in Germantown to talk to fourth- and fifth-graders about making good decisions and having a safe and happy summer. The talk coincided with a fire safety demonstration run by his office using a special trailer that simulates conditions in typical home during a fire. The kids learned to recognize the signs of a fire in their home and to safely get outside quickly. Sheriff Bellotti is pictured here standing next to the simulator with some of the bright young students from the Snug Harbor school.

Oh Deer . . . This Is A Cemetery

A DEER (left) looks back toward City Hall as passersby walk near Hancock Cemetery earlier this month. Employees at City Hall noticed the deer early in the morning and notified authorities. State animal control officers were summoned to the historic final resting area in an attempt to catch the animal. After several attempts the deer was tranquilized, safely removed from the fenced-in cemetery and relocated to a more natural habitat.

QUINCY GRANITE 'GAZING BALL' – To commemorate Quincy's tercentenary celebration in 1925, the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association presented the city with this 11-ton Quincy granite ball. It became known as the "Gazing Ball" because of its high polish that will last forever. Here the ball is shown at its original location next to City Hall. It's now located near the same location in front of the glass City Hall annex building and adjacent to the James R. McIntyre Government Center.

QUINCY CITY HALL – Built in 1844 when Quincy needed a larger Town Hall, his handsome Greek Revival Quincy granite building remains a landmark in the city's center. Continuously used by several city departments over the years, it has been supplemented with a modern glass annex building. The original city hall was renamed the James R. McIntyre Government Center in 1985 in memory of the city's popular 26th mayor and former state senator.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY – Thomas Crane was a granite worker who left for New York and made a fortune in real estate. When he died, his family established a trust to build this library as a memorial to him. Designed by the renowned architect Henry Hobson Richardson, it has been expanded three times since it opened in 1882. Richardson's Romanesque building is depicted in this postcard scene.

Tom Galvin Tribute: Some Postcards From His Popular 'Scenes From Yesterday'

QUARRY – For over 100 years, beginning early in the 19th century, Quincy's leading industry was centered on its vast deposits of very unique and high-grade granite. The granite was prized for use in building and large structures and later for monuments. Over 50 quarries were opened – this one provided granite for the Bunker Hill Monument.

These postcards from the collection of Tom Galvin appeared in color in the 2011 Quincy Sun Historic Quincy Supplement. All descriptions by Tom Galvin, city historian.

Football Programs Unite For Youth Skills Camp

QHS's Kevin Carey,
NQHS's Ryan Craig Directors

The Quincy and North Quincy Youth Football Association joined forces with the Quincy and North Quincy High School Football programs to hold a free football skills camp and showcase at Creedon Field in North Quincy last Saturday.

Over 200 football players and 50 coaches from around the City of Quincy were on hand to take part in the camp.

"The goal for this camp is to showcase the game of football to young players and parents who are apprehensive about football," said QYFCA President Steve Koski. "All you hear in the media lately, about football, is negative and inaccurate. Our camp showcases the positive influence football has on our players," Koski added.

Every football program in Quincy was represented on the staff for the event. The camp was directed by new high school head coaches, Ryan Craig (NQHS) and Kevin Carey (QHS) and their staffs and players. They were joined by many coaches from the North Quincy Apaches AYF, Quincy Jr. Presidents AYF and Quincy Militia semi-

O'Connell-Thomson Basketball Tourney Set For July 14-15

The 13th annual O'Connell-Thomson Basketball Tournament will be held on July 14-15 at the Fenno Street courts.

The event is held in memory of John O'Connell and Dennis Thomson, two standout athletes who graduated from North Quincy High in 2002 and tragically had their lives cut short in the past 14 years.

Their families have set up memorial scholarships in their names to benefit North Quincy graduates and the tournament serves to raise funds for these scholarships.

The weekend will feature a 16-team men's tournament and a four-team women's tournament, featuring a number of local college basketball players, as well as many former and current high school players from Quincy.

Games begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday and will run throughout both days. There will be raffle prizes and concessions for spectators.

State Legion Baseball Tournament Meeting At Morrisette Post Friday

The second of three state baseball tournament meetings is set for Friday, June 29th at 7 p.m. at the Morrisette American Legion Post, Liberty Street, Quincy.

Anyone who is interested in helping for the tournament should attend. The final meeting will be the night before the tournament Friday, July 27th at Adams Field. Time TBD.

For more information email coach Maze at Morrisetteball@aol.com.

'Our Quincy High' Airs On Channel 22

The last episode this school year of "Our Quincy High" will be shown on channel 22 at 6 p.m. from Thursday, June 28 through Friday, July 6.

The show can also be viewed on the Quincy High School Film and Television Broadcasting YouTube channel.

This week's episode will include segments on the National Honor Society, the cultural fair, the national school walkout for gun laws, and the Hunchback of Notre Dame school play.

Principal Larry Taglieri will also interview Patriot League scholar athletes Shannon Foley and James Robinson.

STUDENT ATHLETES OF THE MONTH

Sponsored by

Megan Bailey

Lacrosse - Quincy H.S.

"Megan always gave her all and proved to be a real work horse for the team this year."

- Alisa Arakelian

Megan Bailey played Lacrosse for the past 8 years, 3 years on the QHS Varsity team. She also plays soccer and is on the cheer team. This year, Megan proved to be irreplaceable with 39 goals and 6 assists. In her free time, she helps out with the City of Quincy's Youth Lacrosse Program. Megan is currently undecided on her college selection, but is interested in studying early childhood education. She was awarded the 2018 Patriot League All-Star Award. Megan currently holds a 3.61 G.P.A.

Shane Lerkvikarn

Tennis - North Quincy H.S.

"Shane is the true definition of a student athlete. He leads both on the court and off. He's worked hard to improve himself and his team."

- Matt Ramponi

Shane started playing tennis at 12 years old and would like to continue playing competitive tennis in college. He received many awards and distinctions including the 2018 Fisher Division MVP, Patriot League All-Star, and Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic Awards. Shane's impressive statistics include going 20-1 for the 2018 season. He was the Men's Single Champion at Quincy's Annual Tennis Tournament. Shane is a member of the National Honor Society and volunteers for Quincy Recreation Department.

214 Compete In 36th Annual Quincy Senior Olympics

With 214 participants from twenty three communities and one rain delay, the 36th Annual Quincy Senior Olympics concluded with a medal ceremony at the Kennedy Center.

Facilitated by the Office of the Mayor, the Department of Elder Services, and the Quincy Recreation Department, athletes age 55 and above came together for 12 competitive and camaraderie-filled days. Their participation stands as a role model for the promotion for healthy lifestyles.

Olympic highlights included Quincy resident Charlotte Cuneo completing the one-mile run with a time of 12:02, tying the record for the fastest time for women age 65-69 set by Patricia DelVal in 2014.

The games began with a ceremonial torch lighting by the two winners of one-mile walk in the 90-94 age group, Ted Coburn and Mary Roever, and concluded with the medals ceremony at the Kennedy Center. The ceremony and the sportsmanship luncheon, which included refreshments provided by Brookdale Quincy Bay, serves to recognize and celebrate the achievements of the over 200 participants.

Linden Ponds, a multi-year sponsor of the Games, received special acknowledgements along with supporters of the games and site hosts including Brookdale Quincy Bay, the Torre Dei Passeri Club, Olindy's and Presidents Golf Course.

Recreation Director Barry Welch and Kennedy Center Director Thomas Clasby recognized Friends of the Olympians for their role in the success of the Games, including Brewster Ambulance, Q.A.T.V., The Quincy Sun and John Adams HealthCare Center, as well as city agencies such as the police department, traffic and parking, the park department, and data process-

Pickleball Takes Off In Quincy

By TOM GORMAN

It's not tennis. It's not ping-pong. It's pickleball.

Pickleball fever is spreading throughout the country and has infected many Quincy residents over the past few years. The sport has prompted many communities, including Quincy, to build dedicated pickleball courts to accommodate the increasing number of players.

"Pickleball is one of the fastest growing sports in America, if not the fastest growing sport," said Quincy Recreation Director Barry Welch.

The game became popular among seniors in Florida several years ago, particularly among tennis players.

The sport has since taken off.

"Senior citizens have absolutely embraced the sport, primarily because many of them were tennis players," said Welch. "As you get older, playing tennis on a macadam (hard, asphalt) surface is extremely stressful. So, they have picked up this game because it is on a much smaller court and they can take their skills of tennis and utilize them and not be at as much risk for Achilles tendon or knee and hip damage."

Pickleball is a combination of badminton, tennis and ping-pong. It's played with a paddle and a whiffle-like ball on a court a bit smaller than a tennis court. The net is a few inches shorter than a tennis net. On either side of the net is a no-volley zone – or a kitchen as it is often called. A player cannot step into this zone to hit a ball in the air. However, the player can step in to return a shot if the ball bounces into the zone.

The game can be played by two players, but is often played by doubles. The first player or doubles team to reach 11 points wins the match. However, if there is a tie at 10 or 11 points, the winning score must be by a spread of two points.

Welch said he has seen the popularity of the game explode over the past several years and it has become part of the city's annual Senior Olympics tournaments for the past four years. Teams from Randolph, Milton, Marshfield, Quincy and a large contingent from Braintree played in this year's tourney.

"It has absolutely grown," he said. "We had more people this year than last year, we had more people last year than we had the first and second year. And now, it's played year round."

Pickleball even has its own national association – USAPA (USA Pickleball Association) – based in Arizona. The non-profit organization provides rules, rankings, promotions and sanctions tournaments.

According to Welch, the USAPA sent a trainer to Quincy five years ago to hold introductory clinics that taught locals the sport during the senior Olympics.

"Instead of a Senior Olympics game, we held a training event," he said.

Three years ago, Quincy converted a parking lot in back of the Kennedy Center in North Quincy into two pickleball courts.

"No fences, no nothing, we just marked it," Welch said.

During good weather months, the seniors have been playing outside, and in the winter they move inside to the Kennedy Center gym. There are about 40 to 50 seniors that now regularly play year round.

This spring, when the Fore River Field playground in Quincy Point was renovated, three pickleball courts were installed cross-court in the basketball area. Welch explained that the basketball courts were made slightly larger than usual to accommodate the dimensions of the pickleball courts.

Last month's Senior Olympics pickleball tournament was held on the new courts for the first time.

"We now have pickleball

courts out in the neighborhoods much like the old days or the days now that you have tennis courts in various playgrounds around the city," he said. "Now, we have our first city playground with a pickleball court."

Right now, Welch said the recreation department does not yet offer a formal pickleball league.

"We work very, very closely with the people that play at the Kennedy Center," he said, noting, that his department provides the balls and nets.

Dorsey Wheeler, who won the gold medal in this spring's women's Senior Olympics pickleball tournament, said the sport has "all the right ingredients."

"It provides great exercise, competition, and has allowed me to meet many new friends," she said. "It can be played indoors or out, so is year round and may be played by all ages."

Wheeler said she has taught some of her family members, including her eight grandchildren, the sport of pickleball.

"Learning this sport at this time in life has been a wonderful addition to a fulfilling retirement," she said.

According to USAPA, pickleball was invented in 1965 on Bainbridge Island, just off the coast of Seattle, Washington by three dads – Joel Pritchard, Bill Bell, and Barney McCallum – "whose kids were bored with their usual summertime activities."

There are a few theories as to where the pickleball name was derived. One is that it was named after Pritchard's dog, "Pickles" who would chase after errant balls during the game. Another is that Pritchard's wife, Joan, called it pickleball because the game – a combination of different sports – reminded her of the pickle boat oarsmen in crew who were chosen from other boats.

Pickleball courts are popping up across the country. Welch said that in Florida, some well-known resorts have taken out tennis courts and replaced them with pickleball courts.

Locally, Quincy is not alone in adding pickleball courts. Braintree, Abington, Weymouth and Marshfield have recently installed dedicated courts for pickleball. Welch noted that in Marshfield, players there raised $30,000 to build courts and a clubhouse on land provided by the town.

"It's (Marshfield's facility) much like the Quincy Tennis Club here," he said.

Welch said that pickleball courts could be coming to other areas of Quincy in the future.

QUINCY SENIOR OLYMPICS women's pickleball gold medal winner Dorsey Wheeler returns a shot.

"I would suspect that all our new designs for playgrounds will probably have pickleball in there in one form or another," he said.

Welch added that although pickleball is popular among seniors, younger players, including children, are getting involved.

"We took the playground kids to the Kennedy Center courts to play, and they loved it," he said.

Welch said that pickleball is here to stay.

"I can say this with all faith, it's not a fad," he said.

Welch said that the cable television sports network ESPN televised a national pickleball tournament last weekend.

"When I saw it on ESPN, I knew we've arrived," he said.

Students Clare Ablett, Auro Pemper Complete Community Service Projects

Finish Sixth Grade At Adams Montessori School

Clare Ablett and Aurora Pemper recently celebrated the completion of the sixth grade at Adams Montessori School. Clare is moving on to Boston Latin Academy and Aurora to the Woodward School. As part of their sixth year in the elementary program at Adams Montessori, they both chose a community service project that interested them.

Aurora chose to work at Interfaith Social Services, a local food pantry in Quincy. Some of her tasks were sorting through food to remove expired or spoiled items. She was also responsible for stocking shelves with canned and bagged goods. Although the work was often heavy and laborious, Aurora found it intensely rewarding and plans to continue volunteering there indefinitely.

Clare chose to organize a donation drive (clothing, toys, stuffed animals) through NuDay Syria, an organization created to provide humanitarian aid to Syrian refugees. Clare became interested in the topic of the rights of refugees in her 4th year at Adams Montessori when she researched refugees for the Montessori Model United Nations.

Law Firm Donates 200 Bike Helmets To QPD

The Quincy Police Department has received a donation of 200 bicycle helmets from the Boston law firm of Breakstone, White & Gluck.

The firm made this donation as part of its Project KidSafe campaign, which works to encourage safe cycling and prevent head injuries. This is the second year the firm has made a donation to help protect children in Quincy.

"On behalf of the Quincy Police Department, I want to thank the Boston law firm Breakstone, White, & Gluck for their dedication to children and bicycle safety through their Project KidSafe Campaign. As a bicycle-friendly community, it is important we educate and encourage bicycle safety in our city from an early age," Chief Paul Keenan said.

"It is our pleasure to make this donation and support the Quincy Police Department's work to promote bicycle safety," said

Attorney David White. "We know children are more likely to wear bike helmets and understand that helmets are critical to preventing head injuries if they receive one from someone they respect within their own community. The Quincy Police Department and its bike patrol officers are strong partners for our Project KidSafe campaign."

Massachusetts law requires children who are 16 years old and younger to wear bicycle helmets when they ride. The Quincy Police Department and Breakstone, White & Gluck encourage all cyclists to wear helmets to prevent head injuries.

Follow these tips for riding your bicycle safely:

- Wear your helmet. Wear a helmet at all times, whether you are riding several miles or just going down the street. Learn how to properly fit your helmet and if you are a parent, teach your child.

- Keep your bicycle in good condition. Check the ABC's, by regularly checking the air in your tires, brakes and chain.

- Bike lights. Cyclists in Massachusetts are required to use bike lights if they ride from 30 minutes after sunset until 30 minutes before sunrise.

- Stay visible when you ride. Wear neon and other bright colors when you ride.

- Obey traffic laws. Cyclists should generally travel on the side of the road, in the same direction as traffic, or ride in the traffic lane if they need to for safety. Parents should decide where it is safe for their children to ride. If children ride on the sidewalk, make sure they stop and give pedestrians the right of way.

- Learn the area. Drive and walk a bike route before you ride or let your children ride.

Norfolk County Registry Of Deeds Celebrates 225th Anniversary

the second most important signature in John Hancock's life."

Hancock, his wife Dorothy Quincy, and his friend President John Adams greeted those attending the event. The evening was filled with "pomp and parade" as President Adams would say with a stirring rendition of God Bless America sung by the Singing Trooper, Dan Clark among his several patriotic songs. There was also fife and drum music performed by the Colonial Boys and an honor guard from the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office which led the procession into the Registry's Great Hall.

People strolled throughout the 113 year old building to view the 45 notable land exhibits, which include the names of the 4 U.S. Presidents who were born in Norfolk County: John Adams (Braintree, now part of Quincy), John F. Kennedy (Brookline) and George H.W. Bush (Milton). They also viewed the land records of Norfolk County residents who won Nobel Prizes and others who were elected Governors of Massachusetts.

Additionally, there was a land record of an extraordinary individual from each one of the county's twenty-eight communities.

"This is an eclectic group of Norfolk County people that have made significant contributions in the areas of science, the arts, politics, environment, law, military and medicine," O'Donnell said. Some of those honored included revolutionary war hero Paul Revere (Canton), Supreme Court justice Louis Brandeis (Dedham) astronaut Sunita Williams (Needham) and Helen Keller advocate for the disabled (Wrentham).

There were also exhibits tracing the history of the Registry of Deeds throughout its 225 years. There were storyboards about the different Registry locations as well as past Registers of Deeds.

"Much has obviously changed," O'Donnell noted. "The Registry operations have gone from the days of scribes with quill pens to the modern era of computers and advanced document imaging. No longer do people ride by horseback to the Registry of Deeds, but today they can perform many of the same tasks from the comfort of their home computer."

Those who attended the event received a booklet which included all the exhibits as well as a pin commemorating the 225th anniversary. If you are interested in a free booklet, email agardner@norfolkdeeds.org or call the registry of deeds at 781-461-6104.

"Norfolk County has an amazing history. It is one of the reasons that it is considered a destination place to live and to work," O'Donnell said. "We are proud as a Registry to be the depository of more than six million land records and processor of hundreds of thousands of transactions on a yearly basis. But as proud as we are of the past and the present, we are just as excited and focused on what the future holds for the Registry."

The Norfolk County Registry of Deeds is located at 649 High St. in Dedham. The Registry is a resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate, accessible land record information.

All land record research information can be found on the Registry's website www.norfolkdeeds.org.

Quincy After School Child Care Marks 30th Anniversary

Honors Dr. Richard DeCristofaro With 1st Children's Champion Award

The staff and board of Quincy After School Child Care, Inc. recently gathered at Granite Links Golf Club in Quincy along with ad sponsors, parents, and friends to celebrate the 30th anniversary of this popular after school program for children in Quincy. A carnival theme, complete with circus performers and carnival games, set the scene for an evening that truly captured the spirit of QCARE's after school program. Local food and beverage samplings created a menu in the same carnival motif and one that matched the festive mood of the event.

A warm welcome from Quincy Mayor Thomas Koch and memories from a former QCARE participant set the tone for the remarks that were to follow. This thirty-year celebration seemed an appropriate time to honor the service of longtime President of the Board of Directors by establishing the Arthur Keough Children's Championship Award. Janice Keough, accompanied by her children Chris Keough and Alexandra Sugrue, accepted a plaque to mark the occasion. Janice acknowledged Arthur's commitment to being a man for others with warm memories of his dedication to several Quincy organizations and his special fondness for the QCARE program.

QCARE Executive Director, Sarah Morrison presented the Inaugural Children's Champion Award to honoree, Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, Superintendent of Quincy Public Schools. Dr. DeCristofaro was chosen because of his commitment of excellence for all of Quincy's students and because it is generally acknowledged he goes above and beyond to achieve this goal. Dr. DeCristofaro accepted the award in the company of his family, friends and colleagues and credited his success to the hard work of all the principals and teachers that work with him daily.

QCARE Board President, Peter McLoughlin thanked the Quincy community for supporting this important program for Quincy. A life-long resident, he remarked, "I can think of no better way of giving back to the city of Quincy than to help improve the after-school care and education of its children. QCARE has been doing it better than anyone for the past 30 years and tonight is a celebration of the organization's amazing past and also its very bright future."

Quincy After School Child Care, Inc. opened in 1987 at the Montclair school location. Today, QCARE provides high-quality, licensed care for children from kindergarten through age thirteen at nine elementary schools throughout the city. The program focuses on the individual needs of children of all abilities, while supporting educational enrichment, developing social skills and character, promoting wellness and health as they work to build resilience for local children and their families. Learn more about QCARE at www.quincyafterschool.org.

PETER McLOUGHLIN, president of the Board of QCARE, thanked the Quincy community for supporting Quincy After School Child Care (QCARE) for the past 30 years.

A Celebration of Asian American Women Leaders In MA

For the third consecutive year, small business owners, business leaders and community advocates serving Asian communities came together with Eastern Bank, in partnership with The Commonwealth Seminar, the Asian American Commission of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and TIE Boston, to celebrate small businesses and Asian American Heritage during May's Small Business Month and Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month.

An additional element of this year's event showcased Asian American Women in Business and Public Service in honor of Eastern's 200th anniversary. As it celebrates its bicentennial in 2018, Eastern is focused on "Advancing Women" in its advocacy and philanthropy throughout the year in honor of its very first customer, Rebecca Sutton.

Abby Nguyen-Burke, a North Quincy resident and passionate advocate for the Asian American community, was a co-chairperson of the event. Other Quincy residents who participated at the event as panelists were Quincy Councillor at-large Nina Liang, Assistant Secretary of Business Development and Trade for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Nam Pham, and Multi-Business Owner Karen Diep.

Currently, 28 percent of Quincy's population is Asian American. Two-to-three blocks of most major intersections around Quincy are now comprised of Asian markets, shop and restaurants.

Nguyen-Burke is a business banking relationship manager and vice president at Eastern Bank where she has worked on business and community development for more than 10 years. She is responsible for providing business loans, lines, and commercial real estate mortgages for small to mid-size businesses in the Eastern Massachusetts footprint. She is first generation Vietnamese-American.

Growing up as a refugee and understanding the importance of family and community, she strives to make impactful changes to the community where she works and lives. She was formerly board chairperson and president of Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) volunteering on QARI's board for more than 12 years, and also volunteers for VIETAID among other organizations where she gives her time. In addition, she has been recognized as a 40 under 40 by South Shore Stars.

Volunteering on behalf of the Asian community in Quincy and Boston's neighborhoods has always been a personal cause close to Nguyen-Burke's heart. Having parents that escaped an impoverished and increasingly hostile home environment in South Vietnam, and having been born abroad while growing up in an initially alien U.S. culture, Nguyen-Burke empathizes with the unique challenges that many of QARI's youth face. From her own experience, she found not having services to help new immigrants in the Quincy Public Schools at the time made it difficult to fully integrate into life in a new land while also developing a social network outside of family and the classroom. It is with those experiences in mind that Abby champions efforts that help young people master basic tasks such as fitting in and communicating so that they can focus their time on studying, making friends, and developing lifelong interests.

For Nguyen-Burke, co-chairing Eastern's event to celebrate Asian American Women Leaders of Massachusetts and Eastern's Asian American Professional Employees Collective are ways to pay forward the lessons she has learned to help future generations of Asian American youth, including here in Quincy.

The event featured two panels and special speakers state Treasurer Deborah Goldberg, Eastern Bank President Quincy Miller, WGBH General Manager Liz Cheng, and Founder and CEO of Empiriko Dr. Pam Randhawa.

During the "Women Shaping the Political & Public Future in Massachusetts" panel, Lisa Wong, Deputy Director, Asian American Civic Association and former mayor of Fitchburg, described politics as a way to connect with others and build relationships in a community, which in and of itself can be viewed as a confidence builder particularly for Asian American women.

Diana Hwang, founder and executive director, Asian-American Women's Political Initiative, touched upon the lack of gender and ethnic diversity from the Asian community in politics and as a result, described the importance of surrounding young Asian women who are interested in politics with mentorship and training. Through this, more political knowledge is built that can be brought back to their communities and eventually change how the Asian community shows up in politics.

Nina Liang, a Quincy city councillor at-large, reminded the audience of the importance of having mentors and other Asian American women with experience navigating politics and who can provide encouragement and knowledge.

Jason Cincotti of Cence Cincotti Strategies shared his insight as a political campaign consultant on the three key elements of running for office: people, money, and time. The panel was moderated by Ian So, CEO of Chicken & Rice Guys.

During the "Women Leading in Business" panel, four successful business women from different backgrounds and fields shared their unique experiences and obstacles they went through to become successful business owners today. Their common advice to the attendees: don't give up, ask questions, use available resources, hire a strong team, reward your employees when business is good and help them grow with the business. Passion, drive, and patience was the secret recipe for their success. As entrepreneurs, they also discussed the challenges in balancing work and life, and introducing their children to entrepreneurship at young ages. One speaker runs three diverse businesses with a family and special needs child, and juggles different responsibilities with intentional planning and scheduling.

"Women Leading in Business" panelists were: Karen Diep, Owner, Soleil Tan & Spa, Van Shabu & Bar, and Savin Hill Wine & Spirits; Sifu Mai Du, Founder, Wah Lum Kung Fu; Asa Kalavade, General Manager, Amazon Web Services; and Dr. Aparna Rao, Founder and CEO, eCare Vault. Other participants included Nam Pham, Assistant Secretary of Business Development & Trade, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and Ryan Van Luling of Eastern Bank Wealth Management. Robert Nelson, Director of the U.S. SBA's Massachusetts District Office, moderated the discussion.

State Treasurer Goldberg reminded the audience of the tremendous contributions Asian American women leaders make to solving problems, creating lasting change, and providing business solutions. She described the Commonwealth of MA Asian American Commission as the only permanent state government organization advocating exclusively for and on behalf of the Massachusetts AAPI communities.

WGBH General Manager Liz Cheng spoke passionately about finding your voice, using it and taking control of your own narrative. When many in the AAPI (Asian American Pacific Islander) community may seek security rather than risk, and to keep their heads down rather than pursue promotion, she highlighted the importance of speaking up to change the equation, particularly around career opportunities. And when you master your narrative, give back and help others create their own stories and narratives of success.

Founder and CEO of Empiriko Dr. Pam Randhawa informed the audience about the state of Asian American women in business today, sharing the following:

There are approximately 11 million Asian women in the U.S. — owning over 630,000 businesses — employing an estimated 649,000 people across the country and bringing total receipts of $105 billion. Still, Asian-American women remain "largely invisible" in politics, entertainment, among the Fortune 500 CEOs and corporate boards. Asian women make up 0.2% of CEO positions and less than 1% of total board seats of S&P 500 companies.

Despite their high achievements in education, Asian American women make disproportionately less money than their male and white counterparts. Asian American women make about 75 percent of their male counterparts.

"However, in the last few years, we have made a good progress in the areas of policy, politics and business," Randhawa said. "For the first time in history, last year three Asian American women represented the U.S. Senate and two filled Cabinet positions — Senators Tammy Duckworth from Illinois, Kamala Harris from California, and Mazie Hirono from Hawaii, and U.S. Secretary of Transportation Elaine Chao and U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Nikki Haley.

"We have also seen the rise in Asian American women entrepreneurs in STEM and other sectors, but we have a long way to go."

This event is important to hold our valued institutions accountable to their community commitments — especially around advancing women, pay equity and women's leadership — and also to continue the tradition of creating a venue for strengthening networks," Randhawa continued. "These new connections and networks continue to support the role of small business enterprise, community growth and Asian American women in business and public service."

'Independence Forever' July 4 At Adams NHP

John Adams, Abigail Adams And Thomas Jefferson:

The Founding Fathers had the radical idea that a government should be for the people. Today, America's 400 plus National Parks represent this exact idea.

Join Adams National Historical Park at the "Continental Congress" as the meaning of independence is debated, defended, compromised and considered July 4.

Experience history through the performing arts as we salute two of our nation's most celebrated Founding Fathers, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson and Founding Mother, Abigail Adams, in the stage play: Jefferson and Adams, by Howard Ginsberg.

Lend your voice to liberty as the Declaration of Independence is read, right outside and below the room that John Adams took his last breath on July 4, 1826, the Jubilee Anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Celebrate the 242nd anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence at the home of one of the men who helped to write it. This annual tradition has brought thousands to take part in the celebration.

The July 4 activities include:

Independence Forever: The Continental Congress
2 to 3:30 p.m.

The Carriage House, 135 Adams St., Quincy

Become a delegate to the Second Continental Congress and re-enact the passage of the Declaration of Independence in the Adams Carriage House. This interactive and engaging event is an invitation to adults and children to take part in the debate about whether to remain loyal to the British crown, or to create a new nation!

The Reading of the Declaration of Independence
3:30 to 4 p.m.

Join the delegates at John Adams's Old House at Peace field and lend your voice to the ceremonial reading of the Declaration of Independence!

Jefferson & Adams: A Stage Play
4 to 6 p.m.

The Beale House, 181 Adams St., Quincy

Witness a compelling dramatization of the friendship between John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, and Abigail Adams. Colonial Williamsburg reenactors Bill Barker and Abigail Schumann join actor Sam Goodyear in bringing to life the fifty-year relationship – often contentious, sometimes turbulent, and ultimately enduring – of this dynamic trio who hold forth on life, love, and loss in their now famous correspondence. The play will take place under the tent at the neighboring Beale House.

The day's events are free and open to the public.

There is limited street parking. A free trolley from the Adams National Historical Park Visitor Center (Presidents Place Galleria, 1250 Hancock St.) will be available. Validated parking is located on the 4th and 5th floors in the Galleria Parking Garage.

Adams National Historical Park includes the birthplaces of the second and sixth presidents of the United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, along with the Old House at Peace field, home to both presidents and four generations of their distinguished family. During the open season, April 19 through Nov. 10, tickets to the historic homes can be purchased at the Visitor Center located at 1250 Hancock St., Quincy.

A free park trolley transports visitors from the Visitor Center to the Birthplaces and the Old House at Peace field for a two and a half hour tour. The first tour leaves at 9:15 a.m. and the last tour leaves at 3:15 p.m., seven days a week including federal holidays.

Tickets are $10.00 for adults (children 15 and under are free) and sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

For a complete listing of tours and events visit the park website at www.np.gov/adam, or call (617) 770-1175.

Hancock/Adams Common & Downtown Construction Activities

Proposed work activities for the week of: June 24th, 2018

• In approximately 2 weeks, the middle section of the Hancock Lot, which is currently accessible from Revere Road, is scheduled to be closed so that work can begin on the new City parking garage (Monday, July 9, 2018).

• Work continues at the intersection of Revere/McGrath and Dennis Ryan Parkway to improve and upgrade the aging sewer infrastructure. The work will take place on the weekends (Sat. & Sun.) from 6am to 6pm. This work will continue for approximately 3 to 5 weekends.

There will be traffic delays associated with the above-mentioned work between Burgin Parkway and Southern Artery. To avoid these delays, seek alternate routes to get to your destination.

• Work within the Hancock/Adams Common continues with: mud mats at the north end, granite curbing, irrigation work, lighting work, mud mats at the north end of the Common, loaming of the planter beds and brick work at the south end of the Common.

• Sewer and drainage work continues in the south end of Cliveden Street closest to Hannon Parkway as well as working on Parkway. This work will be taking place between 8pm and 5am Monday thru Friday evenings. There will be lane closures and detours in this area.

• Work on the water quality unit on Hancock Street at Cottage Avenue (in front of the old Hancock Tobacco store) should be completed this week by D.F. Pray's contractor Derenzo.

(The photo at the above left shows an arm of a mini excavator cautiously maneuvering between a Comcast ductbank and an electrical ductbank in the forefront of the photo and a live watermain on the backside of the excavator arm. This is a deep excavation required to relocate the existing sewer in the Hancock Lot (future site of the new City parking garage) out of its footprint and redirect out into Dennis Ryan Parkway. The above right photo shows a worker installing bricks at the south end of the new Common.)

Frank E. Levesque, Jr., 79

A funeral Mass for Frank E. Levesque, Jr., 79, of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in St. Ann's Church, Quincy.

Mr. Levesque died June 20 surrounded by his loving family.

Devoted father of Frank D. Levesque and his wife Michaelynn of Hanson and the late James A. and Renee Levesque. Caring son of the late Frank Levesque and Harmonia Yocum. Long time companion of Patricia McLaughlin of Quincy. Cherished grandfather of Brian, Michael, Daniel, Patrick, Matthew, Brandon and Ian. Loving brother of Douglas Levesque and his wife Gloria of TX, Calvin Yocum and his wife Cloe of CA and the late Marguerite and her husband Steven

FRANK E. LEVESQUE, JR.

Lightfoot. Also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Mr. Levesque was a United States Army veteran who proudly served his country. He was retired from Verizon after many years in equipment installation.

Mr. Levesque was an avid Boston sports fan, especially his beloved Boston Red Sox. He could most often be found listening to the Red Sox on the radio while working around his yard or on projects in his home. He enjoyed sitting on the porch and spending time with his neighbors who were like his family. He was a devout Catholic and member of both St. Ann's and Sacred Heart Churches. Family and friends were his passion in life and he will be sadly missed by all those who had the pleasure of knowing him.

Interment at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Thomas M. Galvin, 79

THOMAS M. GALVIN

A funeral Mass for Thomas M. Galvin, age 79, of West Quincy, a retired business executive and Quincy city historian, was celebrated Tuesday in Sacred Heart Church, Quincy.

Mr. Galvin died June 22.

Born in Boston on May 17, 1939, he was the eldest son of the late Thomas M. and Marguerite C. (Johnson) Galvin of Wollaston. He was the husband of his high school sweetheart Judith (Murphy) Galvin with whom he shared 57 years of marriage. In addition to his wife Judy he is survived by three sons; Thomas M. Galvin and his wife Cynthia, Scott J. Galvin and his wife Janet and Sean W. Galvin and his wife Kathleen all of Quincy. He is also survived by his five cherished granddaughters: Kaitlyn, Jessica, Shannon, Victoria and Julia. He was the brother of Harold A. Galvin of Vero Beach, Florida and Quincy. He was predeceased by his siblings Judith C. Galvin, Kevin A. Galvin, Marcia J. Farrell, John W. Galvin and Cheryl E. Stokinger.

Mr. Galvin was raised in Wollaston and Norfolk Downs and graduated from North Quincy High School in 1956. In his youth he had been a soda jerk at Baker's Drug store and a pin boy in local bowling alleys as well as a newspaper boy and a golf caddy.

He began his over four decade long professional career at the Boston Gear Works in Norfolk Downs as a timekeeper and data processor. Over time he rose to senior management and executive positions leading the venerable industrial manufacturing company into the computer age. Two decades before the internet was established Mr. Galvin combined telephony and computer technology (IT) to pioneer electronic business-to-business commerce between Boston Gear and its nationwide network of independently owned industrial distributors. He also developed a complex product configuration and ordering system using ground-breaking IT concepts for which he was awarded a United States patent. His varied career spanned a total of 43 years when he retired from the company as a vice president in 1999.

Mr. Galvin was a member of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and served as president and chairman of the board. He was a fixture at the Chamber's Board of Director meetings for over 30 years. He also was the founding president and chairman of the board of the Quincy 2000 Corporation, which has become the Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

He was a long time member of the Quincy Rotary Club and a recipient of Rotary's distinguished Paul Harris Fellow Award, and as such was committed to Rotary's ideal of community service. He was a founding member of the Quincy Partnership, a past trustee of the Quincy Historical Society and a director of Quincy College Courses, Inc. He was a passionate student of Quincy's history and was widely known for his collection of antique Quincy postcards which he shared for over twenty years in his weekly Scenes from Yesterday column in The Quincy Sun newspaper, as well as in historical slide lectures throughout the city. He was chairman of the city of Quincy's Cemetery Board of Managers and for many years he led interpretive tours of the city's historic Mount Wollaston Cemetery. For his commitment to sharing his knowledge of Quincy's history he was appointed city historian by Mayor Thomas Koch.

Besides his passion for Quincy's history Mr. Galvin loved his morning walks, Quincy granite, Strauss waltzes, his courtyard garden, his library, railroad trains, clocks, a good steak, beer and cigars, but especially he loved his wife Judy.

Interment at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Quincy Rotary Scholarship Thomas M. Galvin Quincy History Award, P.O. Box 2178, Quincy, MA 02269-2178.

June C. Webster, 82

A funeral service for June C. Webster, age 82, was held Monday in Old South Union Church, Weymouth.

Mrs. Webster died peacefully June 20 surrounded by her family.

She was born on June 18, 1936, to Walter and Ruth (Cox) LeVangie. She worked at South Shore National Bank where she met and later married "the love of her life," the late Robert M. Webster. They raised their family in South Weymouth and later resided at 1000 Southern Artery in Quincy.

For 25 years, Mrs. Webster served as a school crossing guard at Fulton School in South Weymouth. Her watchful eye and caring demeanor were widely appreciated throughout the school community by both parents and the students.

For much of her life, she remained close to her high school girlfriends, known as "The Club." She and her husband, Bob, along with their children, also enjoyed spending summers at the family home on Long Pond in Plymouth.

Mrs. Webster was a devoted mother to Richard S. of Worcester, David K. and his wife, Dee, of Rehoboth, Susanne L. and her husband, Thomas Ford of Whitman, and Robert D. of South Weymouth. She was an adoring Nana to Austin and Ashley Webster of Raynham and Sandra, Jacey, Meghan and Thomas Ford of Whitman. June was also the sister-in-law of Priscilla A. (Webster) and her husband Richard F. Cox and leaves many nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by her sister, Bernice (Bunny) Perrault.

She will be remembered as an upbeat and hopeful woman who was strong and courageous throughout the entirety of her life. She will be sorely missed by so many.

Interment at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by C. C. Shepherd Funeral Home, Weymouth.

Memorial donations may be made to the Norwell VNA and Hospice, 120 Longwater Drive, Norwell MA 02061.

Brian P. Morrissey, Esq., 33

BRIAN P. MORRISSEY

A funeral Mass for Brian Patrick Morrissey, Esq., age 33, of Cambridge, was celebrated Wednesday in Sacred Heart Church, Quincy.

Mr. Morrissey died unexpectedly on June 21.

The beloved son of Leo X. and Sandra D. (Muir) Morrissey of Quincy. Love of his life, Kathryn Sheehan of North Andover. Grandson of the late Edward P. and Helen C. (McLaughlin) Morrissey and Frederick T. and Mary E. (McNeilly) Muir. Cherished nephew of Elizabeth Muir of Quincy, Ted and Maureen Morrissey of Marlboro, Richard Chevette of Rockland and the late Judy Chevette, Joan Travers and Paul D. Morrissey. Godson of Robert Johnson of Quincy. Also survived by many cousins.

A Quincy resident for many years, Mr. Morrissey graduated from Sacred Heart School in North Quincy, Class of 1999, and furthered his education at Xaverian Brothers High Law Journal. He also served as a judicial intern to Hon. Bonnie MacLeod-Mancuso at Suffolk Superior Court.

Prior to law school, he worked several years in the physician credentialing and graduate medical education fields. Mr. Morrissey enjoyed football, comedy shows, beer making, had a love of history, and a love for his family and friends. He will be sadly missed by all those who were fortunate to have known him.

Interment at Cedar Grove Cemetery, Boston.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Charlotte M. Dell, 93

Funeral services for Charlotte M. (Chute) Dell, age 93, of Quincy, formerly of Brockton, were held Wednesday in the First Presbyterian Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Dell died peacefully June 20 at the Marina Bay Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Quincy.

She was born in Brockton to the late Gladys (Dearn) and Theodore Ash Chute. She was raised in Brockton and was a graduate of Brockton High School. She had lived in Quincy for seventy years.

Mrs. Dell was a dedicated homemaker but as a young woman had worked as a telephone operator with the New England Telephone Company.

She was a woman of great faith and an active member of the First Presbyterian Church in Quincy for sixty-five years. She served as a church deacon and over the years, was involved in all aspects of the church and its ministry.

She enjoyed her membership and friends at the South Shore YMCA where she served fifteen years on the Board of Directors. She also volunteered at Father Bill's Place in Quincy.

Mrs. Dell loved swimming, reading and playing the piano but her greatest passion was for her family. She was especially proud of her grandchildren and great grandchildren, supporting all their many activities and accomplishments.

Beloved wife of the late

Henry W. Dell. Devoted mother of Douglas W. Dell and his wife Maryann of Holbrook, and Elizabeth A. Smith and her husband William of Middleboro. Loving Grandmother of four grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Dear sister of the late Barbara Cabral. Also survived by several nieces and nephews.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Don't be Sheepish about asking questions and demanding answers. You not only gain needed information, but also respect for your steadfast search for the truth.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A money problem that shows up early in the week is expeditiously resolved by savvy Bovines who know how to turn a momentary financial lapse into a monetary gain.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's a good time to shed negative energy-draining forces and develop a positive approach to handling current, as well as upcoming, personal and/or professional situations.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your urge to do your best on a current task is commendable. But don't let it become all-consuming. Spend some spiritually restorative time with those who love you.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This could be a good time for all you Leos and Leonas to take your bows for your recent achievements and then go off to enjoy some fun times with your prides and joys.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A negative response to a well-intentioned suggestion could communicate a sense of distrust you might later find hard to refute. Think carefully before reacting.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your loving attention comforts a family member who is feeling a bit out of sorts. But be careful to prioritize your time so you don't neglect your work duties.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your curiosity might be resented by some. But those who know you will support your penchant for never settling for less than the truth. So stay with it.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A pesky situation from the past recurs, albeit in an altered form. Deal with it promptly before it can go from merely irksome to decidedly troublesome.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't wait too long to submit your proposals after giving them a last look-over. If necessary, you should be able to defend any portion called into question.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A bid to use your workplace dispute-settling skills in another situation is tempting. But be careful: You might not have all the facts you'll need if you agree to do it.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) That sense of self-doubt is so untypical of you, you should have no qualms in shaking it off. Remind yourself of all you've done and can do, and then do it again.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your ability to charm others without sacrificing sincerity is what makes people want to follow your leadership.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Jared Leto won an Oscar for playing a transsexual in "The Dallas Buyer's Club" (2013) and scored big with "Suicide Squad," playing the Joker. The film raked in $747 million at the box office. He next took on "Blade Runner 2049," which barely recouped its cost with a $259 million gross. His most recent film was "The Outsider," which he also produced for Netflix, with Emile Hirsch. Warners currently is expanding his "Joker" character from "Suicide Squad" into a major film. You may remember that Heath Ledger won an Oscar, posthumously, for playing the Joker in "The Dark Knight" (2008). Saoirse Ronan, who received Oscar nominations for "Atonement" (2007) at age 13, "Brooklyn" (2015) at 21 and last year, at 23, for "Lady Bird," next will take on the title role in "Mary Queen of Scots," with Margot Robbie (her last year's Oscar competition) and former "Doctor Who" David Tennant. It will open Dec. 7. "Call Me by Your Name" Oscar nominee Timothee Chalamet is awaiting the release of Woody Allen's "A Rainy Day in New York," with Selena Gomez and Jude Law, and currently is filming the American/Australian co-production of "The King," with Lily-Rose Depp (daughter of Johnny Depp) and Robert Pattison. The film is an adaption of the Shakespearean plays "Henry IV" and "Henry V." It will be interesting to see if that will translate for modern filmgoers. Brad Pitt is one of the producers. Oscar winner Reese Witherspoon will revisit being "Legally Blonde" for the third time. The original 2001 film earned $141 million, while the sequel netted $124 million. In addition, a musical based on the film is still touring the U.S., proving its popularity. No cast or release date has been announced for "Legally Blonde 3." Julia Roberts presented two-time Oscar winner George Clooney with the American Film Award in a June 7 ceremony, which aired June 8 on TNT. If you missed it, it will re-air in September on TCM.  "The Addams Family" will never die. First it was a TV series with John Aston and Carolyn Jones (1962-1964), then several films with Raul Julia and Angelica Huston, as Gomez and Morticia, in 1991 (cost $30 million/gross $191 million) and 1993 ($47 million cost, $49 million U.S. gross). This time out it will be an animated film with the voices of Oscar Isaac (as Gomez), Charlize Theron (as Morticia), Bette Midler (as Grandmama), Chloe Grace Moretz (as Wednesday), Nick Kroll (as Uncle Fester) and Oscar winner Allison Janney as their arch-enemy Margaux Needler. It's set for an October 2019 premiere. No mention of Thing or Cousin Itt. It just wouldn't be the same without Itt or ... uhh, them!

KOVELS' Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Shell-Shaped Watch Holder --- Shell-shaped decorative objects were very popular during the 19th century. There were trinket boxes covered in tiny shells, counter bells made with several mother-of-pearl shells put together into a container, or nautilus shells used as part of cleverly shaped lamps that held a special light bulb. Some large conch shells were kept whole as decorations, often with the addition of a cameo carved into part of the shell. Glassmakers adapted the shell shape to their medium, and during the late 1800s, many "shells" were made of colored glass that was decorated with enamel paint or held in elaborate metal frames. A shell-shaped cranberry glass watch holder with enameled decorations was auctioned recently. The almost egg-shaped glass was held in a gilt metal frame with leaves, flowers and a bird finial. The unusual piece, probably American, sold for $708 at a Conestoga auction in Pennsylvania. It was lined with padded fabric to protect the watch. A pocket watch kept in a holder on a table near the bed served as a bedroom clock. ***

Q: My mother gave me a small box, 6 1/2 by 3 3/4 by 1 1/4 inches, with five small dolls inside. Each doll is 3 1/2 inches tall. It says on the top of the box "Best Maid Quintuplets," "No. 63077" and "Made in Japan." Is this of any value?
A: The Dionne quintuplets, Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie, were born in Canada on May 28, 1934. They were the first quintuplets to survive infancy. When they were four months old, they became wards of the Canadian government and were put under the guardianship of Dr. Dafoe, the doctor who delivered them. The girls lived in the Dafoe nursery, where they became a major tourist attraction. They returned to live with their family in 1943. Thousands of special dolls and souvenirs were made picturing the quintts at different ages. Annette and Cecile are still alive. The value of your dolls is about $20. ***

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was popular British romance author Jilly Cooper who made the following observation: "The male is a domestic animal which, if treated with firmness, can be trained to do most things."
* If you're like the average human, you blink about 17,000 times every day.
* Filmmaker George Lucas is arguably best known for his "Star Wars" franchise, but he also directed "American Graffiti." During the making of that earlier film he designated each reel of film with an R before the reel's number, and each instance of dialog was prefixed with a D. At one point during the sound mixing, the sound designer needed to use Reel 2, Dialog 2, and so asked for "R2D2." Lucas liked the sound of it so much that he used it for the name of a robot character in his later work.

* At 6 feet, 4 inches tall, Abraham Lincoln is the tallest president in the history of the United States.
* I'd be very surprised if you'd ever heard of Bokassa I, former emperor of the Central African Republic. It's interesting to note, though, that while he was on trial for infanticide, cannibalism and torture, he commented, "Being head of state is an extremely thankless job."
* Researchers have discovered that humans aren't the only ones to imbibe alcohol on a regular basis. It seems that the tiny pen-tailed tree shrew makes a habit of consuming naturally fermented palm flower nectar, which has an alcohol content of 3.8 percent -- comparable to that of most beers. ***

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

* Moving tip: Put books into suitcases, which often have wheels and good handles, in order to transport them. Books placed in boxes can get unbalanced when they don't fill the box efficiently. It makes them hard to carry and hard to stack, since you risk the corners crushing. But suitcases are easy to carry right to the shelf before unloading.
* Finding a bandage to cover a skinned knee or elbow is almost impossible. These can be a large or irregular area that doesn't fit under even the most generous of bandages, and adhesive bandages just don't stick well over a joint. Here's a tip for that: Apply antibacterial ointment generously, then cover the knee or elbow with a regular gauze pad. Then add a "sleeve" cut from a pair of tights. It moves with the joint without bunching up the way an ACE bandage does, and it stays in place.
* "After the kids decorated cupcakes one day, I found that the counter and floor were covered with little spilled sprinkles. They were the ball kind, and they were hard to pick up. Rather than sweeping them up (which made them go flying), I used a lint roller, which worked perfectly." -- S.I. in New York

* "To save money on electricity, hang jeans and other heavy clothing to dry first. When it's mostly dry, pop it in the dryer to fluff. Do the same with towels. The dryer softens it, but the sunlight dries it well, and I think it smells better too." -- U.F. in Ohio
* Some facts about cantaloupe, now in prime season: Choose fruit that is smooth and round, with a depressed, soft scar on the stem end. Look for netting on the skin that is even and yellow, not green. One cantaloupe will get you about 50 melon balls or 4 cups of fruit when diced.

pro football club. All these organizations worked well together for the common of goal teaching kids the game of football to the youth of Quincy.

QHS coach Kevin Carey was excited about the direction the game of football is taking in the city of Quincy.

"What a great way to start the new era of football in Quincy," said Carey. NQHS Head Coach Ryan Craig added, "This is what football in Quincy is all about. Coaches teaching kids, kids learning and having fun. A great day was had by all."

Ryan Craig and Kevin Carey, like many of the coaching colleagues, got their start in football as players in the QYFL in the 1980s. Decades later, the students have now become the teachers.

The Quincy Youth Football & Cheer Association (formerly QYFL) has been around since 1950. After 67 years in of operation, the league has decided to move into AYF and has merged its traditional five Quincy franchises into two programs known as the North Quincy Apaches AYF and the newly formed Quincy Jr. Presidents. These two programs will play in the Bay State Conference of American Youth Football (AYF) this season. They will play grade-based tackle football. Each program will have 6 grade-based squads for grades 3-8. They will also offer cheerleading (grades

QYFCA teams will begin preseason practices on July 26th. The regular season will run from Sept. 1 to Nov. 1. Both teams are still accepting new player and cheerleader sign-ups for the 2018 Season.

For more information about the QYFCA or your local team, visit their website online at www.QYFCA.com or email: NQApaches@gmail.com.

NORTH QUINCY AYF Coach John Macdonald works with quarterbacks.
